Further information and Advice

I have spent the morning with our local Community Safety Officer who has many years of experience in crime prevention.

In his experience, the majority of house burglaries are carried out during daylight hours by opportunistic thieves who approach homes under the guise of a genuine visit, such as door-to-door selling OR asking for directions. If someone answers the door they will work to script but if there is no answer to their knock and no sign of the residents being in, they will break in by the easiest means and within 5 minutes will have left the property with several hundred pounds worth of your belongings.

Please make these people think twice before breaking into your property. Leave a radio on, leave a lamp on in a window that is easily seen from the road, angle your window blinds so that they cannot see in, etc.

Don't be your street's weakest link!
